Logic graduate student day at the BLC conference

Dear all,

The British Logic Colloquium PhD Day will be held on September 1st 2021, as part of the BLC Annual Meeting. This year it is hosted by Durham University, and will take place online on Zoom, during UK working hours (BST/UTC+1).

We invite PhD students to register to speak. Any topic in logic is welcome, including but not limited to logic in mathematics, philosophy, computer science, and linguistics. There will be two kinds of talks:
A. 30 minute research talks.
B. 5 minute introductory talks.

The 5 minute talks are a chance to introduce yourself and your project. We especially encourage students in the early stages of their PhD to give a short talk - there will be plenty of slots!

The 30 minute research talks will be first, followed later by the 5 minute introductory talks.

If you are interested in giving a talk, please email blcphdday2021@gmail.com, including your name, affiliation, talk title, and abstract (not compulsory for short talks).

If you are interested in attending as an audience member, please fill out this form

For any further information, please email blcphdday2021@gmail.com

Looking forward to seeing you there virtually,
Luke, Giovanni, & Ned
